Dear George,

I have about finished sweeping up after myself on our Far Eastern business which culminated in my visit at your place. It is for this reason that I am tardy in writing to thank you for your courtesy to me during my visit.

25X1A6a I appreciated very much your turning over your driver and your own car for my convenience on my last day in [REDACTED] Stanley, as I recall his name, was very courteous and helpful, and I am sure had I needed to take advantage of him for longer he would have continued his help.

25X1A6a I am in the midst of my darkroom activity on photographs that I took in [REDACTED] and perhaps before the new year I can send you something which, while not paying for either the gas or the wear and tear on your car, will at least give evidence that I do appreciate very much your assistance.

I only regret I could not stay longer to get better acquainted with your station people and, needless to say, the countryside.

Kindest regards to you and the others at the station and especially to my former secretary, Barbara.

Sincerely,
